Note: The No PID Scenario assumes that the additional lot development costs incurred by the developer, because there is no PID, will result in an increased home price to reflect the additional costs, the developer's additional financing and equity costs, and the homebuilder's additional return required due to a higher lot price.

Note: The No PID Scenario also does not take into account the potential impact on the marketability of both the residential and commercial components of the Project from the need to significantly reduce the scope and quality of community-wide amenities and quality of life features that will result from the lack of PID funding.

(a) Preliminary estimate. Assumes City administrative expenses escalate at 2.00% per year.
(b) Preliminary estimate. Assumes the interest rate used to calculate the assessments is 0.50% higher than the actual interest rate on the bonds to fund interest related to prepayment of assessments and to fund a reserve for delinquent assessments. The additional interest reserve is capped at 5.5%. Unused funds will be applied to the final year's debt service payment and/or credited back to landowners.
(c) Assumes 0 months capitalized interest.
(d) Net of capitalized interest, reserve fund interest earnings, and reserve fund releases.
